

gotten a meal without paying for it, he had picked up fifty cents in the deal and I have the article if you want to read it. So, they were taken in by the way this person were dressed. I'm sure if a person walked into one of the merchants that Senator Goodrich is talking about, into that merchant's establishment, and looked distinguished, effected a bit of an accent, had eyeglasses that he would take off and be wiping as he put this bad check down on the counter, the merchant would be so honored that such a person would grace his establishment that he would cash this check without any identification at all. And this slick individual would say, "No, I insist that you allow me to show you who I am." The merchant said, "No, no, that is all right." And when he leaves the merchant files bankruptcy when he finds out what has happened to him. So what Senator Goodrich has done is to take a bill and offered it to the Legislature to accommodate some people who brought the bill to him. The Banking Committee should have assumed its responsibility and killed this thing without bringing it to the floor of the Legislature, but now that it is before us and we are forced to take a position on it I think we ought not to pass it. We should vote on this motion to kill it and be through with it as of now. So I hope you will vote yes on the motion that is before you.
